

PERINORM - Find out about standards. Keep up-to-date. Faster

When you need the latest facts about standards, you don't want to waste time. Perinorm search functions are designed to be not just easy to use, but to produce results fast. They include:

- refined search fields (document number, publication date, classification etc.)
- variable search settings
- freetext search and expert search options
- extensive link options
- wildcard search
- index search
- search by subject categories

You can choose to run your searches in English, French or German.

Perinorm is a bibliographic database of information about the standards, technical rules and regulations which are the most relevant throughout Europe and the world. It collects its information from the archives of more than 20 national and international standards bodies and currently includes more than a million pieces of data, which are updated every month.

Perinorm shows you as a user of standards, perhaps in your company's development division, reliably and quickly

- what standards are actually available
- what technical rules, and technically relevant legislative and administrative regulations currently apply
- which European directives currently apply
- which documents have been withdrawn, which have replaced them and what is new about their replacements
- which documents are due to be withdrawn
- and
- what the connection is between national, European or international standards, and between standards and other regulations

Perinorm – work and manage more effectively with a better system! Perinorm has all the functions needed for efficient management of your company's standards portfolio. You can

- set bookmarks for quick reference of data needed
- add notes
- assign profiles
- mark particular standards for automatic updates
- create summary lists
- write and edit your corporate standards, assign profiles, export and prepare full-text versions (images).

Perinorm is available on DVD or Online!
